

A Report on Departmental Seminar

Date: 16th August 2019

Venue: College Auditorium

Topic: Contribution of Women in Bodo Society

Organized by: English Department

In collaboration with IQAC, Salbari College

Chaired by: Dr. Sapan Narzary, HoD, English Department

Introduction:

English Department of Salbari College, in its continuous endeavor to promote academic discourse and cultural understanding, organized a departmental seminar in collaboration with the Internal Quality Assurance Cell (IQAC) on the 16th of August 2019. The seminar focused on the significant topic "Contribution of Women in Bodo Society". This event was held in the College Auditorium and was chaired by Dr. Sapan Narzary, HoD, English Department.

Principal
Salbari College, Salbari, Baksa

The seminar commenced with an inaugural address by Dr. Principal, Salbari College, who expressed the importance of acknowledging and understanding the pivotal role women play in shaping the socio-cultural fabric of the Bodo society. He emphasized the need for academic discussions to shed light on the often-overlooked contributions of women in various spheres.

The keynote speaker, Mrs. Sumitra Narzary, an eminent scholar in Bodo Studies and Assistant Professor, Department of Bodo, delivered an insightful presentation on the historical and contemporary roles of women in Bodo society. She highlighted the challenges faced by Bodo women in the past and the strides they have made towards empowerment and leadership roles in recent times.

Following the keynote address, there were panel discussions featuring faculty members from various departments, scholars, and students. These discussions delved deeper into specific aspects such as education, politics, literature, and community development, showcasing the multifaceted contributions of women in the Bodo community.

Key outcomes and insights from the seminar include:

1. Recognition of the historical and contemporary contributions of women in the Bodo society.
2. Identification of challenges faced by Bodo women and discussions on strategies for their empowerment.
3. Promotion of gender equality and inclusivity in academic and societal discourse.
4. Encouragement for further research and scholarship on women's issues in the Bodo community.

Conclusion:

The departmental seminar on the "Contribution of Women in Bodo Society" served as a significant platform for fostering dialogue and awareness regarding the roles and challenges faced by women in the Bodo community. The event underscored the importance of recognizing and celebrating the diverse contributions of women towards the socio-cultural enrichment of society. It is hoped that such initiatives will continue to inspire positive change and empower women to strive for equality and progress.

This report encapsulates the essence of the departmental seminar held in collaboration with IQAC at Salbari College, focusing on the pivotal contributions of women in the Bodo society.

Principal
Salbari College, Salbari, Baksa