

Report on Departmental Seminar
Topic: Adolescent Problems: Contemporary Issues, Trends, and Concerns
Date: 19th February 2019
Time: 11:00 AM
Venue: Auditorium

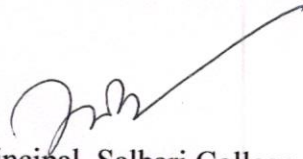

Brief Note:

A departmental seminar on the topic "Adolescent Problems: Contemporary Issues, Trends, and Concerns" was held on 19th February 2019 at 11:00 AM under the guidance of Mr. Parimal Ch. Das, Assistant Professor and Head of the Department. Dr. Trishna Rajbongshi, Assistant Professor, Department of Chemistry, was invited as the resource person. She comprehensively explained contemporary issues related to adolescence, including social, emotional, and psychological challenges. Additionally, she highlighted the crucial roles of social agencies like family, community, and school in preventing and addressing these issues.

Outcome of the seminar:

After attending the seminar, faculty members concluded that adolescent problems are a common phenomenon, but it is imperative to adopt effective mechanisms to prevent contemporary issues. They emphasized the need to organize public awareness campaigns, involving students, to prevent these issues and promote the welfare of society. They ensured that their initiative would yield desired results and contribute to creating a supportive environment for adolescents.
